The world needs saving, our activities have degraded the nature and her beauty. The air is polluted; quality of water resources have degraded and the land is getting eroded. Nature has given us everything but we have disrespected her integrity by exploiting her gifts pointlessly. The human activities have distorted the ecological balance and if action is not taken immediately then we will not be able to give our children a beautiful tomorrow.

We at AV Coirs strive hard to make a change, to make the world a better and healthier place for everyone. AV Coirs is a Based Coimbatore company specializing in producing coir pith which is extracted from the coconut husk. Coir pith has a variety of applications and they are 100% eco-friendly.

Coir pith is generally used as a growing medium or a soil substitute and a soil conditioner. They are also used in potting mix in landscaping, floriculture, horticulture and domestic gardens. We always manufacture best quality products and this unparalleled quality of our products and exceptional customer service helped us gain an international stature.

We export our products to the Netherlands, USA, China, South Korea, UAE, Singapore, Malaysia and Srilanka.

Our products are manufactured in our own production houses located across the state of Tamil Nadu and this gives us full control over the raw materials thereby helping us to ensure the highest quality and in-time delivery of our products.

It has been over a decade since we started our journey in 1998 and in all these years we have produced much innovative value added products through extensive research but still we have a long way to go to ensure a healthier and safer tomorrow for our kids to breathe in.

Our Vision

- We dedicate ourselves in manufacturing high quality products that enhances productivity for a nutritious and healthier tomorrow with value pricing.
- To establish successful long term relationships with our customers and our suppliers with value creation for all concerned.
- To stay ahead of the competition by innovating value added products and developments based on the needs of our customers and market demand.

Our Mission

Supply & infuse unique products into the market and develop its potential presence along with continuous growth of our organization.
