RUBFLEX EXPORTS

Best of India to The Rest of The World

Rubflex was created with the mission of bringing Indian-made goods to the rest of the world. The company is led by enterprising technocrat K. Y. Philip, who has had a passion for the export-import business since his days as a student of mechanical engineering at IIT-Bombay. KY's long years of experience with international trade made him realize that the world could benefit from the many unique products that India had to offer.

Rubflex believes in delivering more than it promises. We believe that dealing with Rubflex should be a delight for every customer and every stakeholder. We eliminate the intermediaries and go straight to the far-flung villages to meet the farmers and pay them top dollars, insisting that they reciprocate by giving us their best produce.

Rubflex's sole mission is to bring goods produced in India and make them available to the rest of the world.

At the helm of Rubflex is an enterprising technocrat, Mr. K. Y. Philip (aka "K Y"), who has had a passion for export-import business since the time he was a student of Mechanical Engineering at IIT-Bombay. KY's long years of experience with international trade made him realize that the world could benefit from the many unique products that India had to offer. He looked for what was unique and authentic, going to remote farms and factories, distant hills and plains, testing and confirming the quality compliance of each product before adding them to his repertoire.

Superior quality products are only the beginning in defining the story of Rubflex.

Rubflex believes in delivering more than it promises. We believe that dealing with Rubflex should be a delight for every customer and every stakeholder. We eliminate the intermediaries and go straight to the far-flung villages to meet the farmers and pay them top dollars, insisting that they reciprocate by giving us their best produce.

Rubflex encourages sustainable farming practices, working closely with nature to protect our environment and deliver a greener planet to future generations. These guiding principles impact our decisions daily — be it looking for new products, new suppliers, or new packaging materials.
