Arumugam Palani, the founder of Bramble Foods, is a self-made entrepreneur who turned personal struggle into lasting success. Born and raised in Kanchipuram, Tamil Nadu, he came from a modest background where hard work was a daily necessity. With no formal capital, Arumugam palani began making appalams using traditional methods he learned from his workplaces.

In 2005, he started Bramble Foods from scratch, handcrafting each batch, sun-drying the appalams, and delivering them himself. Despite financial hardships and limited resources, his commitment to quality, cleanliness, and consistency helped build the trusted brand Bramble is today. Arumugam's palani journey is a true example of how passion and perseverance can overcome any obstacle.

Bramble Foods was born from a simple passion: to bring the authentic taste of South Indian appalams to every table — locally and globally. Founded in 2005 in Kanchipuram, Tamil Nadu, our journey began as a small, family-run venture rooted in traditional recipes passed down through generations.

What makes us different isn't just what we make — it's how we make it. We don't chase variety for the sake of numbers. We've chosen to focus on four core products that we know best: Plain Appalam, Pepper Appalam, Masala Appalam, and Masala Chips. By doing less, we do it better — staying true to time-tested methods while ensuring hygiene and quality at every step. Our appalams are sun-dried the traditional way, ensuring the perfect balance of crisp and flavor that home kitchens have loved for decades.

Today, Bramble Foods stands as a trusted name not because we are big, but because we are consistent — in quality, in taste, and in our commitment to keeping things honest and real.

When you choose Bramble, you're not just buying a product — you're sharing a part of our family's story, one that's woven into every fold of our papads and every spice in our chips.

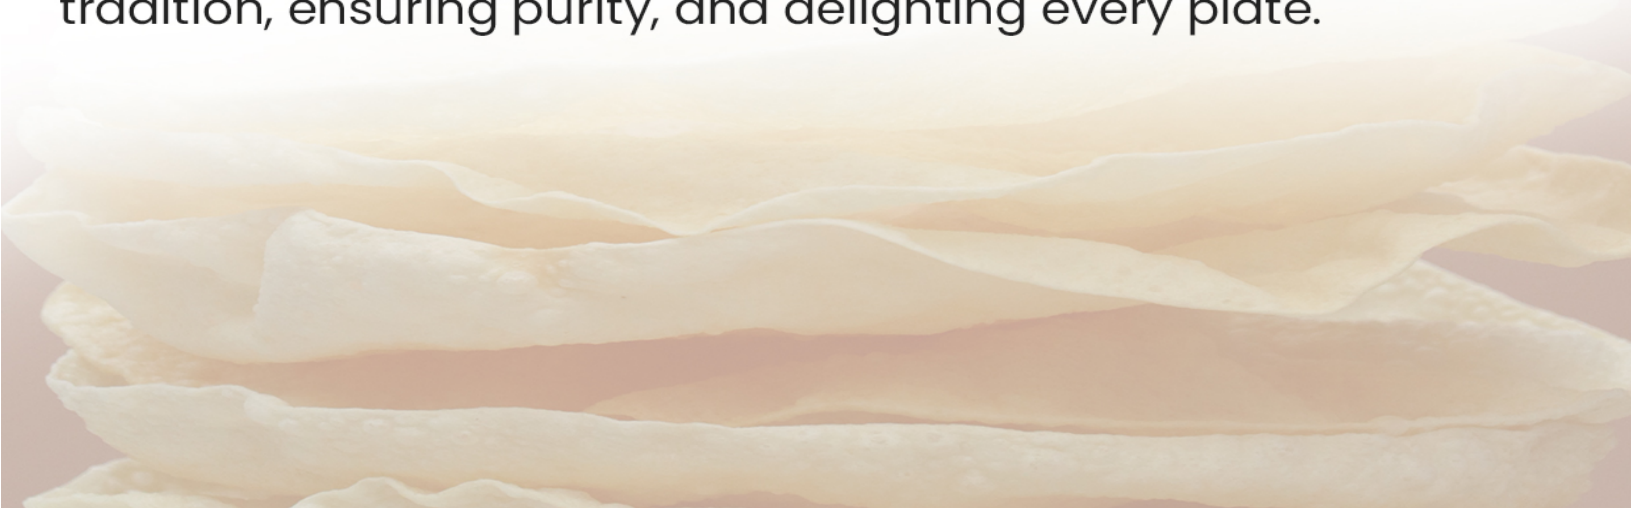

Bramble Foods — Crafted with care, rooted in tradition, and made for every plate.
