Quality Control System

We have separate quality control department which is supervised by many approved expert staff. Our quality control laboratory checks and controls the quality and stability of raw materials as well as finished goods.

Our quality control laboratory has the following principal duties :

To prepare detailed instructions in writing for carrying out each test and analysis

To release or reject

each batch of raw materials

Semi-finished products

each batch of finished products ready for distribution

To evaluate the adequacy of the conditions under which raw material, semi finished products and finished products are stored

To evaluate the quality and stability of finished goods and raw materials

To examine returned products as to whether such products should be released, reprocessed or destroyed.

Quality Assurance

We always determine and follow that the product meets all the applicable specifications and that it is manufactured according to international standards and the GMPs (Good Manufacturing Practices).

Our department of quality control is staffed with scientists and technicians responsible for the analytical testing of incoming raw materials and inspection of packaging components, including labeling. They conduct in-process testing where required, perform environmental monitoring and inspect operations for compliance; finally, they conduct the required tests on the finished dosage form.
